De pardieu advises ca-cib on the financing of a portfolio of rooftop solar installations developed by Sunrock

De Pardieu has advised CA-CIB on the financing of a portfolio of rooftop solar installations deployed on logistics warehouses and industrial buildings and developed by Sunrock. This transaction supports the expansion of renewable energy generation capacity dedicated to the commercial and industrial (C&I) segment.

This transaction supports Sunrock's growth strategy as a developer and operator specializing in rooftop photovoltaic installations while contributing to the acceleration of the energy transition across the logistics and industrial sectors.

The financing will support the deployment of a portfolio of photovoltaic installations on French logistics warehouses and industrial buildings, thereby promoting renewable electricity generation on existing built-up areas and contributing to the decarbonization of the activities carried out by their occupants.

In connection with this transaction, De Pardieu leveraged its recognized expertise in project finance and development, as well as in public law as applied to energy transition projects.

De Pardieu's team comprised Jean-Renaud Cazali (partner) and Raphaël Fabris-Davet (associate) on the financing and project agreements aspects, together with Ilhem Haouas (counsel) and Marc Sbert (associate) on the public law and energy law aspects.
